MISS DOROTHY DEAN IN WAVES; TO GO TO HUNTER COLLEGE, NEW YORK, FOR TRAINING Dec 31 43

Sonoma county's newest WAVE is Miss Dorothy Crystal Dean, former teacher at Petaluma junior high school, who is now awaiting orders to report to Hunter college, New York City, where she will undergo "boot" training as an apprentice seaman.

Miss Dean was sworn into the WAVES, U. S. naval women's reserve, last week at the navy recruiting station in Santa Rosa by Ensign Edna M. Saphore, WAVE recruiting officer for this area.

Upon the completion of her basic training at Hunter college, Miss Dean will qualify for additional instruction at one of the navy's many schools before being assigned to a navy shore establishment and thereby releasing a navy man for duty at sea.

Miss Dean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dean, 325 Walnut street. She was born in Ukiah, attended Santa Rosa junior college and the University of California.

After receiving an A. B. degree, Miss Dean was a teacher at Petaluma junior high, Duns-muir high and then Campbell Union high school in Santa Clara county. For the past five months she has been a civilian employe at Hamilton Field. Organizations with which she was affiliated include the Business & Professional Women's club and Gamma Gamma sorority.

Sept 9-44

Dorothy Dean, Ph. M., 3/c, in the WAVES, who has been stationed at the U. S. Naval hospital at Bethesda, near Washington, D. C., for six months, will arrive home tomorrow on a ten-day leave. This is the first visit home Miss Dean has had since joining the WAVES, and her family and friends are eagerly awaiting her arrival. She formerly taught in the Petaluma Junior high school.

Dorothy Dean 726-26-45

Miss Dorothy Dean, formerly a teacher in the Petaluma junior high school, and who joined the WAVES, at present engaged in research work in the library at the U. S. navy hospital, at Bethesda, near Washington, D. C., has written her mother, Mrs. Ethel Dean, that Connie Murphy, a well known Petaluma girl, formerly employed at The Leader, is also in the same hospital. Connie joined the WAVES months ago. It is quite a coincident that the Petaluma girls should be assigned to the same hospital and they are enjoying the work and happy to be together.

Connie Murphy received her first training at Hunter's college, New York City.
